Remainder of Dr. TENNENT's MEMORIAL.

THE Memorialist being convinced in the Year 1735 of the Advantage of such a Discovery to Mankind, if published, did without long Hesitation resolve, That they should reap the Benefit of it; and accordingly in the Year 1736, had a brief Essay on the Pleurisy printed, setting forth plain and easy Directions how to administer the Rattlesnake Root, by which Publication, and another in Mr. Parks's Gazette, the Discovery was made known every where in this Colony; which has produced the good Effects before-mentioned.

Upon this, several Gentlemen concerned in the Legislative Administration of this Government, having had the Experience of the Medicine, declared, that such a Conduct and Service as the Memorialist's ought to be rewarded, and gave the most valid Reasons why it should be done. And as the Limits of the Memorialist's Fortune were of no great Extent, he, upon the Meeting of the General Assembly, attended it with the Representation of the Publick Service he had done, of which the following is a true Copy.

"To the Honourable the Speaker and House of Burgesses of Virginia, met in general Assembly.

JOHN TENNENT, Practitioner in Physick

Most Humbly Sheweth,

"THAT he having from his early Years been bred up to the Study of Physick and Surgery, and practiced the same with eminent Success for 11 or 12 Years in this Colony; did since his Residence here assiduously apply his Mind to the Discovery of the Nature and Causes of the most mortal and afflicting Diseases under this Climate: And from a full Perswasion that Providence had been so benevolent to Mankind, as to provide Remedies in all Countries adapted to their Diseases: did therefore bend his Enquiries in search of what might answer the Cure of those most mortal in this Country; and in the Course thereof, he discovered, that a Vegetable known to cure the Bite of a Rattlesnake, must answer so great a Purpose as the Cure of the Pleurisy, the most fatal of all Distempers here. And from his Reasoning on the experienced Efficacy of the said Root in the Case of a Bite by that Snake, he discovered that it would fully answer the Cure of that Epidemical and mortal Disease in all its Stages.

"That the said Practitioner considering, that whenever the Pleurisy happened to rage in these Parts of America, it generally proved very mortal, but more especially to the poorer Sort of People and Negroes, whose mean Way of Living and being expos'd to the Intemperance of the Weather, conduceth to the Production of that and such Diseases: He therefore judged, that he could not in the Way of his Profession, do a greater Piece of his Service to this Colony, than to publish the Discovery he had made of a plain, easy, cheap, and expeditious Remedy, not only to serve the Cure of that dangerous Malady, but also to relieve in many other Cases, as is well known by Experience, since his Publication.

"That the said Practitioner having, out of a laudable Ambition, preferred the publick Welfare before the making his own private Fortune; and having been the Means (under God) to save the Lives of many of the Inhabitants of this Colony, as is notorionsly known by numerous unquestionable Instances; many of which are known to several of the Members of this Honourable Assembly: He therefore now attends as an humble Suitor, hoping they will take into their Consideration the Service he has done; which he is led to do in Regard that his Scheme was calculated for the Interest of this Colony, by the Numbers saved yearly by the Discovery made publick; and the Medicine a vegetable of the Growth of this Country, and so plentiful as to be bought for One Shilling per Pound; which in Time may be a very valuable Commodity, as appears by the vast Sums gained by Druggs of other Countries, such as Rhubarb and Peruvian Bark, tho' much inferior in their intrinsick Worth to the Rattlesnake Root.

"The Peruvian Bark was once an Arcanum for the Cure of Intermitting Fevers, but was purchased by Lewis XIV. from its Master, for a very large Sum, and by him was published to the World, and so by that Means was found to serve more Purposes.

"In fine, the humble Suitor confiding in the Wisdom, Honour and Equity of this Assembly, declines expatiating any farther upon this Subject: And prays their Consideration of the Premises, and such Reward as to them shall seem meet, for the Publick Service done by their most dutiful, most obedient, and most humble Servant,

JOHN TENNENT.

Votes of the House of Burgesses of Virginia.

Saturday, November 11. 1738.

"A Petition of John Tennent, Practitioner in Physick, was presented to the House and read; setting forth, That he having discovered the wonderful Efficacy of the Rattlesnake Root, in curing the Pleurisy, was induced to publish such his Discovery, for the common Benefit of the Inhabitants of this Colony; and praying such Reward as to the House shall seem reasonable.

"Resolved, That this House will take the said Petition into Consideration on Tuesday next.

Tuesday, November 14. 1738.

"The House, according to order, proceeded to the Consideration of the Petition of John Tennent, Practitioner in Physick; and after a Debate, the Question was put, That a Reward be given to the said John Tennent, for the great Service he has done this Colony, in making Publick his Discovery of the Use of the Rattlesnake Root? It passed in the Negative.

"Resolved, That the said Petition be rejected.

Wednesday, November 22. 1738.

"A written Message from the Governor and Council was delivered by Mr. Robertson.

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House of Burgesses.

"Mr. John Tennent, who sometime ago published a Treatise upon the Virtues of the Seneka Snake-Root, with Directions ons for preparing and using it, hath brought before us, divers Gentlemen of good Credit, who (as well from their own Knowledge and Experience, as the Relation of others, whose Veracity they have no Reason to doubt) have testified, That the said Rattlesnake Root hath proved an effectual and speedy Remedy in Pleurisies, and other Diseases, incident to the People of this Country: And as Mr. Tennent communicated this Medicine to the Publick, instead of making that Profit he might have gained by keeping it a Secret; and that his Publication may be for the general Good of Mankind; We therefore recommend him to your House, for such Reward as you shall think fit.

"Resolved, That this House will take the said written Message into Consideration to morrow.

Thursday, November 23. 1738.

"The House according to order, proceeded to the Consideration of the written Message from the Governor and Council; and after a Debate, the Question being put,

"Resolved, That the Sum of One Hundred Pounds be paid to Mr. John Tennent, for publishing his Discovery of the Use of the Seneka Rattlesnake Root.

"Resolved, That the said Sum be paid him out of the Publick Money in the Hands of the Treasurer.

Remonstrance, upon these Proceedings of the House of Burgesses.

When an Enquiry is made into the Reasons, why Arcanums and Nostrums are discountenanced by Men of Sense and Learning, they will appear to be of three kinds: 1. If an Arcanum be a thing of great Efficacy, its being so to the Publick, deprives them of the Benefit which would arise from its being published. 2. A Medicine of great Power in one, two, or more Diseases, may still be improved and applied to others, by the Help of Men of Experience, Sense, and Learning; but while it is a Nostrum, such Advantage cannot be gained from it. 3. They who keep Medicines of considerable Use to themselves, shew a Diffidence in the Honour and Equity of them in whose Power it is to reward for Publick Services, demonstrate an ungenerous and selfish Principle, and pave the way to bring into the World more Fraud and Quackery than what is already. These being three weighty Reasons against Quacks and Arcanums, it would seem that the Legislature of a civilized Country must consider the countenancing Man who began to break the Way to banish such Practices t of the World, to be for the Advantage of the Publick, the nour of their Country, and strict Equity; which are the e Articles they are elected for by their Constituents. Whe- r the Lower House of the Legislature of Virginia have acted n Conformity to these three Points, the Memorialist appeals to he rest of the World. And he must observe:

That when he made his Discovery publick, four Points were in his view: 1. Humanity. 2. To raise his Reputation. 3. That he never doubted to be rewarded adequate to his Merit by the Country he served in such an important Matter, in that free and open Manner. 4. And that the Representatives of the Country he so honoured, by shewing no Diffidence in their righteous Judgment, would by acting as it required from them, imitate the most civilized Nations of the World: For when History is perused, it appears that the most polite Countries encouraged all Actions tending to their Honour and Interest: Witness the Romans, Persians, Spartans, Carthaginians, and Egyptians; to the latter of which the Art of Physick stands greatly indebted for its Advancement, and had not they paid the greatest Esteem for any extraordinary Cure, they could not have made so great Progress as they did, which appears to any one who will look into their History.

As to the first of these four Points, he sees that his View is answered fully, by the Good his Publication has done to numerous Patients in several Diseases, and therefore rests perfectly satisfied, tho' Time should not be a Means of having his three other Views compleated. As to his Reputation, he humbly conceives, that it should rise or fall according the Use of his Invention, which Facts will evidence, and cannot be well concealed or bore down by the most envious. And as to the other two Points, he hopes that some time or other there will be such a Change in the House of Burgesses, as to have these Proceedings erazed from their Journals for the Honour of their House and Country, and such a Resolve made, as consists with Gratitude; and by that Means they will wipe off such a Tarnish, as a certain great Man made equal to every thing Base, when he said, Ingratum si dixeris, omnia dicis.

That it may appear there was not an Unanimity in passing the Resolve which stands justly an Opprobrium upon the House of Burgesses, there were about ten or twelve Members for a greater Reward, tho' they differed in Opinion from 1500 to 200 Pounds; whence may easily be discerned the Spirit and Genius of the Gros of that House. And indeed seeing that there are some of them of a Temper becoming their Honorary Station, the Memorialist would be chargeable with Partiality to omit observing their Difference in Sentiment from the Majority.

But since the acting such a Part, as he has done, is to be rewarded with no greater Sum than 75 l. Sterling, or One Hundred Pounds current Money, what Man will upon his Motives give out of his Hands, that which could have brought him in at least Three Hundred Pounds per annum? Or who will stand in Opposition to Ignorance and Quackery, or the Name of Quack, tho' making an Arcanum of a Discovery countenances these, and brings that Epithet upon him?

In fine, If the House of Burgesses had questioned the Service alledged to be done their Country, for want of proper Evidence, the Memorialist in that Case would have expected their Imitation of their Mother-Country England, where Acts are passed for great Rewards, in case certain publick Services can be effected. But the Truth of the Matter is; The Evidence is undeniable, it being from the Mouths of many of their own House, as well as great Numbers of all Ranks throughout Virginia: And in consequence of that Evidence, they have acknowledged the Service, and given a Reward of One Hundred Pounds current Money.

VIRGINIA, Fredericksburgh, March 28. 1739.

THE Decoction of Seneka Rattlesnake Root is made by boiling three Ounces of it in a Quart of Water over a slow Fire, till near half is evaporated; then strain the Liquor through a Cloth. The Root must be reduced to a grojs Powder, that the Water may fully draw its Efficacy.

This Plant grows plentifully in Virginia, Maryland, and Pennsylvania, in the Freshes and hilly Grounds, and affects a light and tolerable good Soil. The Root is of a light yellow Colour, resembling Ipecacuana in its Texture and Shape, but is larger, has a strong Pungency without Heat, but does not communicate that Property upon chewing it immediately. The Leaves are something like green Peas, and the Stalk is commonly from six to twelve Inches high, on the Top of which are white Flowers something like the Rattles of a Snake, while in Bud, which appear among the first Flowers in the Woods: And there are no Branches from the Stalks, but several Stalks arise from one Root generally, tho' only one Stalk from a Root may be seen sometimes.

The Indian Traders say, That it grows all the way from Canada to South Carolina, where in both it is very plenty.

VIENNA, April 15.

THE Emperor has order'd publick Prayers to be made in all the Churches, to implore the Divine Blessing upon his Arms against the Infidels; and the same will be open'd with a solemn Procession. 'Tis no longer doubted but that the Turks design to attack Temeswaer. 'Tis assur'd that Orders are given to proclaim the Peace between the Emperor and the Kings of France, Spain, the Two Sicilies, and Sardinia; but it is not yet known whether it will be till after the Departure of the Court for Laxembourg.

DANTZICK, May 8. We hear from Petersburg that the Russians are building 100 Galleys in their Ports in the Baltick, and that they are fitting up a Squadron of 7 Men of War at Cronstadt, viz. one of 100 Guns, one of 64, and the rest of 54 Guns. They add, that Measures are already taken for assembling in the Space of 4 or 5 Weeks an Army of between 40 and 50,000 Men in the Neighbourhood of Petersburg, in Case of Need.

LONDON, May 15.

Sixty Thousand Pounds Sterling, granted by the Parliament to the King of Spain to make good the Damage we did his Fleet in 1718, is to be lodg'd in the Exchequer for the British Merchants, towards repairing the Damages they have sustain'd by the Depredations of the Spaniards.
